

The Glass-House seeks new trustees.

The Glass-House Community Led Design charity is seeking three new trustees to join its Board.

The Glass-House supports a community-led design process that ensures regeneration is happening with and for, not to people. The charity is at a very interesting stage of its development; it has secure core funding, but also has the potential to earn income through its services. The current emphasis on localism means it is particularly well-placed to grow.

The three roles are potentially suited to a wide range of applicants; as well as being passionate about what The Glass-House does, the trustees should have experience of financial management, links with the professions concerned with the physical environment and/or experience in supporting grass roots initiatives.

Alex Sainsbury, founding chair of the charity said: 'We have come a long way since we first became an independent charity in 2006. We are now looking for three people with the vision and experience to help us on the next stage of our journey.'

The closing date for applications is 22 March 2010. For further details including an application pack contact Taryn.Richardson@prospect-us.co.uk.
